

You have so much more inside of you than what you have come to believe. You

Are

an unthinkable collection of moments, a perfect concoction of everything beautiful the universe can create and mend. The world has always told you that you are not enough. Not worthy. That you never will be.
The truth? You are more. You are capable than you could ever imagine.

More

More beautiful than any prize, achievement, or label projects you to be. You are more than empty words, compliments, or criticisms made by people who will never understand your true, incomparable inner beauty. You are more

Than

the judgment of the world, even the ones whose opinions you most rely on.
You are earth, wind, fire, space. You fill every inch of the world with all that you are. No part of you goes unnoticed. One day, you will wake and see that you are more than your pain. That your heartbreak, destruction, disappointment, and frustration with the world does not define you. Nor does it suppress you. You are free bird, and no net ensnares you.

A

You hold the shadows of your past with every step you take. But wherever this life takes you, your shadows will always bring light, and with light comes joy, love, hope, and belonging.
Forever—you are more than just a Silhouette.

